

River Forest Township Assessor: Triennial Property Assessments Notices Coming in the US Postal Mail Soon

Seminar scheduled for March 3rd & residents have until March 18th to file appeal

River Forest residents will soon be receiving their triennial property re-assessment notices from the Cook County Assessor's Office, River Forest Township Assessor Pamela Kende announced today.

Representatives of the Cook County Assessor's Office confirmed on Thursday that those assessments would be mailed out on Friday, February 7th. Residents will have over a month, until March 18th, to ask questions, determine whether they wish to file an appeal, and then make an appeal.

"We met with a team from the Cook County Assessor's office's residential valuations staff, and they provided valuable insight into improvements they have made to make the process simpler and more equitable for all," Kende said. "At the same time, they emphasized the importance of bringing information to their attention that could correct mistakes in the assessment process."

Meantime, on Tuesday, March 3rd, the township assessor is hosting an outreach seminar with the Cook County Assessor. They will share how to appeal your property's assessment and you will be able to appeal and ask questions directly to the staff from the county assessor's office regarding the property assessment process. That session begins at 6 p.m. at the River Forest Community Center, 8020 Madison St., Room 206.
